

The HHS Office on Disability is pleased to announce an exciting new informational resource. Our partners at HealthCare.Gov have released two versions of a new one-page fact sheet entitled, “People with Disabilities & Serious Health Conditions: The Top 5 Things You Need to Know About the Affordable Care Act” – one in English and another version in Spanish. This resource highlights key aspects of the ACA which meet the needs of consumers with disabilities. These fact sheets are also linked to the Office on Disability page at <http://www.hhs.gov/od/community/public/index.html>.

Especially in light of what we learned from last year’s HHS Advisory Committee on Minority Health report, “Assuring Health Equity for Minority Persons with Disabilities,” we are especially pleased that we are now able to offer advocates in areas with large Spanish-speaking populations a valuable educational resource on how the Affordable Care Act addresses the needs of people with disabilities. Please note that HealthCare.Gov content is also available in Spanish at the Spanish language website, <http://www.cuidadodesalud.gov>.

We encourage you to share these resources with your colleagues and constituents and will keep you updated as new materials come online which reflect the advances in implementation of the Affordable Care Act.
